

WOMEN GIVE FINN LESSON IN POLITICS

Magistrate Hears the Election
Troubles of Bokowinsers
Ladies' Aid Association.

IT BEATS A PRIMARY.

First District Leader Learns How
Fair Sex Handle a Campaign
for President of a Society.

Magistrate Finn was greatly impressed with the ability of women to manage a political election contest, when a group of them were before him in a Yorkville Court today in connection with the election of president of the Bokowinsers Ladies' Aid Association, 2125 East 107th street, was the complainant, and told of a wild procession of thirteen masked and draped sister members, who, she was convinced, wanted to murder her last Sunday night. The only more man in the affair was Louis Kohn, a cafe keeper, who said that because he was friendly with Mrs. Feingold, he was seized and knocked out by another man.

When Magistrate Finn had heard a few of the allegations he explained: "Shades of St. Tammany! This sounds like a primary. Are you women going to be as bad as the men, with plots and black-robed conspirators and may-be strong-arm slugging? Well, you can give us cards and spades, and beat us, too."

A Heated Primary.

Mrs. Feingold obtained only six summonses for her enemies, but it seemed as if the entire membership was turned loose in the court-room today. The Bokowinsers Ladies' Aid Society meets every week at the Florence Building, Second avenue and First street, and its members are for the most part wives of well-to-do east side merchants. All of them were jewels today, and although they were greatly excited over the contest, they hardly seemed capable of the deep designs Mrs. Feingold alleged.

The complainant, a stout little matron, said that for a month she has been scolding Mrs. Pastor for the Presidency, but that there was a strong following for Mrs. Horn. This started all the trouble. On the stand Mrs. Feingold said:

"I was having a cup of coffee in Mr. Kohn's cafe after the meeting last Sunday night. Just as the clock struck midnight the door was pushed open and in came thirteen women. They were all dressed in black, with black veils or masks, and they carried canes. They shook the canes at me and asked me to come with them. I was afraid they were going to kill me."

More Men in Fear.

As she finished the other women crowded up, pushing big John Cavanagh, the court officer of the bridge. They all talked at once, until finally Magistrate Finn was obliged to order them to keep quiet. Then Ludwig Kohn, a witness for Mrs. Feingold, came up. He is a gray-haired little man, and said he was present in his cafe when the mysterious thirteen tried to beset her out into the night. "I'm a prisoner in my own cafe," said Mr. Kohn. "These women will stop at nothing. It's because I'm a friend of Mrs. Feingold. I was talking to her on the night of June 2, when a man came up behind me and hit me on the head. I went down and out. I'm afraid they will kill me, and I'm going to sell my cafe and go away from the neighborhood."

The defendants wanted to talk some more, but Magistrate Finn said: "I want you all to go home and try to be friends. A little election excitement is a good thing, but don't have too much of it." They didn't want to go, and it took four court officers to show them out into the hall, where they held an indignation meeting.

YOUNG OARSMAN DROWNED BY TOW.

Members of the Seawanhaka Boat Club, of East Elmhurst, L. I., are today searching the inlets of Flushing Bay for the body of Thomas Harper, twenty-four years old, who was drowned last evening while rowing.

Harper was alone in a skiff and was watched by a crowd on the veranda of the club-house as he rowed. He was seen under the lee of a tow of coal barges. When the barges had passed, the skiff was seen to be overturned.

Boats were manned by the club men, but when they reached the skiff they could find no trace of young Harper. Evidently the crew of the tug that was towing the barges did not know of the accident.

Young Harper lived at No. 46 Chester street, in the Brownsville section of Brooklyn.

FAST AUTO BOATS IN COLUMBIA RACES

First Regatta of the Season on North River Saturday Gets Large Entry.

IT BEATS A PRIMARY.

First District Leader Learns How
Fair Sex Handle a Campaign
for President of a Society.

Paul J. Rainey will race his fast power-boat Anona against L. F. Pettes's Twentieth Century in the first power-boat regatta of the season, to be held on the North River to-morrow, under the auspices of the Columbia Yacht Club. Other fast boats entered are the Swaney, Arthur E. Miller, the famous Dixie, E. J. Schroeder, and the Simplex IV, A. Proctor Smith.

For many years this regatta has been the most popular event of the yachting season, and in the regatta to-morrow there are entered practically all the new boats of the past winter's work, which on this occasion make their debut as racers. The racing will continue nearly all day, the first event being started at 10:30 A. M. and the last at 5:30, when the fastest of the auto boats cross the line in what may be expected to be the hardest and fastest contest of the season.

The classes comprise all the sizes and grades of motor-boats from the cruising to purely racing machine. A special feature will be the race between the Knickerbocker one-design class, known as "Sea Shunks," for which handsomely trophies is offered by the Regatta Association. This race starts at 1:00 o'clock. This is the first race for these boats on the Hudson River.

The List of Entries This Morning

has reached more than a score in number and will be nearly doubled at the final closing. Those entered up to noon today, besides the five first named, were as follows:

Yankee, W. J. Brainerd, Reliance, L. Copeland; White Fox and Silver Fox, H. S. Hart; Dixie, C. E. Field; Gazelle, Judge W. G. McCrea; Omelet, G. E. Shaw; Smut, C. Andreale, Jr.; Anita II, H. Stepanoff; Bonnie II, W. P. Adams; Reddome, H. A. Lozier, Jr.; Lucania, Walter J. Hewitt; Shawna, George E. Sutton; Nabuck, Walter Gould; Dotie, Dr. J. K. Densmore; and Ben, Joseph Hoagland.

The races will be sailed over a course in Flushing Bay, the Columbia harbor at the foot of Eighty-sixth street and Riverside Drive and the crowds on the high bank along the Drive. Members of the club will entertain during the regatta, the House Committee having arranged to present a handsome souvenir to guests.

Prizes made by Tiffany & Co. for the regatta will be displayed at the clubhouse, the list being the most costly and extensive ever given in a similar event.

COURT FREES MAC LERNON.

Judge Says Night Watchman Had
No Intention of Wrongdoing.
Reuben A. MacLernon, a night watchman employed by the Metropolitan Protective Association, was discharged by Magistrate Wahl in Jefferson Market Court today.

The watchman had been arrested on a charge of breaking into a building at No. 13 Jerome street, and in releasing him from custody Magistrate Wahl said that he did not believe from the evidence presented that the prisoner had any intention of wrongdoing.

CONTRACT LET FOR THE SEVENTH AVE. PARKWAY

Work on Great Improvement Fought for by
The Evening World Will Be Begun at Once.

Borough President Ahearn to-day let the contract for building the Seventh avenue drive and parkway to the Harlem Construction Company at a total cost of $23,000. This ends one of the longest fights The Evening World ever undertook for a great public improvement. The work will be begun at once and pushed to completion without delay.

The avenue will be paved with asphalt both sides for a width of 55 feet. The centre will be of greenward with shade trees, forming a parkway with two drives, each wider than an average city street. It will be completed before fall and will be one of the finest drives in the world, certainly the finest in this city.

President Ahearn explained the long delay that has intervened between the approval of The Evening World's proposal for this driveway and its final letting and completion. "It would have let the contract for this work many months ago, as soon as in fact, as the improvement was authorized," said he, "but for the fact that the Seventh avenue was the best route for the big new trunk sewer which was being built, and it seemed useless to build this magnificent driveway and then have to tear it up from end to end to put in the sewer."

It was pointed out, however, that this driveway has been provided, as it will stand for all time as one of the finest monuments in the world to the spirit of public improvement and enterprise. At the same time a contract was let for asphaltizing Eighth avenue from Thirteenth street to Columbia Circle at a cost of $97,750 to the Barber Asphalt Company. This is an improvement that has been needed for a long time and has been delayed by public works that had to be completed before the work could be undertaken.
